MARSH PREDICTS

All Kinds of Weather For the Present Month.

No Drought During August in Any Section of the Country.

Weather prophet W. W. Marsh, of Ohio, says August is going to be a month of storms and cloudbursts. Following is a summary of his prediction:

August will be a month of storms, cloudbursts and heavy rainfall covering the greater portion of the country. Very severe storms of heavy rains will occur over the states of Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Tennessee, Illinois, West Virginia, the river valleys, mountain districts and Eastern states and North Atlantic Coast, the Gulf of South Atlantic and Texas Coast. To those living in the lowlands, on the rivers and along the creeks and streams of Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee and West Virginia, I would advise to be prepared for rapidly rising waters, especially between the 3rd and 9th, 13th and 17th, 30th and 20th and 31st.

There will be no drought during August in any section of the country. Between the 6th and 9th storms and heavy rains along the Ohio river and throughout the river valleys. Extremely heavy rains about these dates over Kentucky, Tennessee and West Virginia.

Between the 10th and 12th, fair and hot weather over the greater portion of the United States. Electrical storms over lake regions, Mississippi and State of Illinois. Rain and hail storms over Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and mountain districts. Between 21st and 24th, cyclone storms, high wind and heavy rain over Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia and Tennessee. Hurricanes, heavy rains, covering the entire East; severe over New York, Maryland, New England, New Jersey and their coasts and on the Atlantic Ocean. Cyclonic winds over the great lakes and lake regions. Between 26th and 31st numerous thunderstorms will prevail from Lake Superior to the Rockies.

GEORGE CAMPBELL RESIGNS

And Douglass Bell Becomes City Judge.

City Judge Geo. F. Campbell on Monday tendered his resignation to Gov. Beckham and the latter at once appointed Mr. Douglass Bell to fill the vacancy. Judge Campbell left home about three months ago to take a course of treatment in a Louisville sanitarium. Mr. Bell was elected by the bar to serve during his absence, but after a month's service was himself taken sick and Judge M. D. Brown has since been filling the office by election. The Council ratified the appointment of Judge Campbell and it is probable that the same action will be taken in regard to Judge Bell this evening at the regular meeting, to avoid complications.

ALL GRADES STRONGER.

Offerings of the Weed Lighter Than Last Week.

The tobacco market this week was stronger on all grades, and while the offerings were some lighter than last week, the weed found a ready sale. No very fine leaf made its appearance, the sales being made up chiefly of medium leaf and lugs.

Prices were a shade higher on the grades offered and rejection amounted to very little. Receipts were not quite so heavy as they were a few weeks ago, but were fairly good, showing that there is considerable tobacco yet to be placed upon the market.

SHOWER CAME

And Vegetation Has Been Greatly Revived Thereby.

Tobacco and Late Corn Have Been Greatly Benefited--Temperature Also Took a Tumble.

The long drouth was broken throughout this section Tuesday by a refreshing shower. The rain began falling about 11:30 a. m., and continued for nearly two hours. While the fall was not heavy all vegetation was much revived and the tobacco and late corn were greatly benefited. In North Christian the rain was heavier than in the south part of the county.

The great drouth in the western corn belt has also been broken and over several states drenching rains have been reported.

Locally the shower not only had the effect of reviving vegetation, but the temperature has been considerably lowered. The mercury went above one hundred degrees every day for two weeks or more before the rain came and on Wednesday morning it had dropped to 78 degrees. Wednesday was a very pleasant day, the highest register being 90 degrees at noon, and on yesterday morning at 6 o'clock the mercury stood at 68 degrees.

The forecast for to-day is fair. Weather prophets agree that we will have considerable rain during this month.

SMALL BLAZE.

Stock Shed and Corn Damaged, But Stock Saved.

The stock shed on the corner of Eighth and Water streets, used by Mr. V. M. Williamson, the coal dealer, caught on fire about 8:30 Wednesday night and several of the stalls were badly damaged. A lot of corn belonging to Mr. Williamson was also burned. Some difficulty was experienced in turning in an alarm, but after the Fire Department was notified they quickly responded and the flames were extinguished in a few minutes. The building is the property of Mr. Ed. Blakemore and the damage is probably $100; fully insured. Mr. Williamson's loss is about $50. He also has insurance.

The horses were all rescued without injury to any of them.

GUN EXPLODED

Blowing off a Hand and Mangleing Arm.

Mr. John Deason, who lives about five miles East of the city, was the victim of a bad accident Wednesday. He discovered some crows in his melon patch and taking his gun went to the field and fired at the birds. The weapon exploded, blowing off his left hand and horribly mangleing his arm.

Mr. Deason at once returned to the house, where he fainted from the loss of blood. His injuries are of such a nature that it is feared they will result fatally.

Golden Friss Fowls.

The Golden Friss was first imported from Holland into this country in 1884.

If tradition is to be relied upon, the Golden Friss is one of the oldest varieties of fowls. More than two thousand years ago, or about the year 300 B. C., they were introduced into Holland by the Friesch people, whose ancient name was Friss, or Frisians, now called Frisians. How long previous to that time it had existed as a distinct race it is impossible to determine, but granting the traditional account to be true, their origin must have been sufficiently remote to satisfy those who take delight in long pedigrees. Their long preservation as a breed is due to the extremely conservative spirit of a people who are averse to changes and persist in perpetuating what they deem specially adapted to their wants. To this day they have preserved their peculiar race of cattle, the Holstein-Friesian, their breed of sheep in limited numbers, and, up to the time of the Spanish invasion, their own kind of horses. The old Friesian fowls came near being lost by interbreeding with English and Asiatic varieties, and those of strict purity of blood, although formerly distributed in large numbers over the entire country of the Netherlands, are somewhat difficult to obtain, and are to be found only among the Friesch people. Indications, however, point to a renewal of the popular favor they once enjoyed and the general distribution of the Friss fowl over the whole country.

In general appearance the fowls are a combination of the Leghorn and Hamburg, resembling more closely the Golden Spangled Hamburg than any other breed. There is little doubt that they are closely allied to the Hamburgs, but it is impossible to say which was the parent stock. They have the high single combs and large upright tails of the Leghorns, combined with a general Hamburg appearance. The legs and feet are of slate color, the toes being generally white to the second joint. The fourth toe is much turned forward and the web of the foot is wide, making them almost "duck-footed." The feathering upon the bodies is abundant and close. In size they do not vary much from the Hamburgs. The wings are very long, extending well back of the fluff and generally lapping by each other. They are "high-flyers," preferring high roosts and lofty laying places. In disposition they are slightly and nervous and make the most active of foragers. They are very prolific layers of medium sized white eggs. The chicks are hardy and easily reared, feather quickly and mature early, cockerels crowing at five and six weeks of age. Like their near relatives, they are non-sitters. In build, like the Hamburgs, they are plump; their flesh is fine grained, tender, juicy and of good flavor; and, although small, they are not to be despised as table fowls.

The Golden Friss cock is of a deep bay or chestnut red color throughout, the tail and sickle feathers sometimes showing nearly black at the central part and along the quill. Such depth of color, however, is not regarded as desirable, and in the very best cocks the tail and sickle feathers are deep bay without black markings. The tail, upright comb is well serrated, generally with fine points, and firmly attached to the head. The earlobes are white and smooth. The Golden Friss hen has the same ground color as the cock, but her plumage is mottled or spangled with greenish black. This mottling is of irregular shape, sometimes taking the form of irregular crescentic bars, sometimes that of spots or splashes of ungemmetrical shape. The tail feathers show a large percentage of black. The single comb of the hen has a tendency to lop to one side, but it is not so marked as in the case of the Leghorns. The earlobes are white and glove-like in their finish.

Taken all in all, the Golden Friss are fowls which must be accorded high rank both for beauty. Of beautiful shape, pleasing carriage, and rich plumage, they also possess the merits of being good table fowls and excellent layers. They will never supplant the Leghorns and Hamburgs in the affections of their admirers, but they will win admirers of their own—Stock Keepers.

The Poultry Standard.

While it is an undisputed fact that poultry breeding is a pleasant and profitable occupation, especially if you are breeding for fancy and the show room, yet it is necessary that you should have a standard if you expect to breed your fowls to be anything near the requirements of the Standard.

I have conversed with several persons upon this subject and as a general thing they all say that they believe that if they had a standard they would try and see if they could breed at least one or two classes of fowls as near the standard requirements as they possibly could.

But they do not like to pay as much for a standard as they would have to pay if they got one. Now what I wish to say about the Standard is this:

I believe it would be better for the people, and more people would try to breed to the standard if they could get a standard of the variety they wish to breed for about 15 or 20 cents.

They do not like to pay $1.00 and will not pay it for a standard which gives all classes of poultry, when they only wish to breed a few different varieties, and have no use for a standard of other breeds. I believe that if there would be a standard made for each breed separately it would be a good step. For instance a Leghorn standard, including every kind of Leghorns, then a Wyandotte standard including every variety of Wyandottes, and a standard for the Plymouth Rocks and one for the Cochins one for the Brahmas, and for the Hamburgs including the S. S. Hamburg and G. S. Hamburg, and all classes of Hamburgs, and a turkey standard, and duck standard, and as I said a standard for every class of fowls, that could be bought by the breeder for about 15 or 20 cents. I am confident that more people would buy a standard, and it would not only increase the sale of standards but it would induce more people to try and breed their poultry up to standard requirements and therefore would be a great step toward advancing the poultry industry.

I will admit that if a man breeds several different kinds of fowls, that the present standard would be cheap enough for him, but there are a great many that have only a few breeds, and some only one, who would not hesitate about getting a standard of their breeds if they could get one for the prices I have named.

I would like for all who read this to give it their just consideration, and exchange ideas in regard to this subject.—STEVE ROBBINS, Fountaintown, Ind., in Fancy Fowls.

Catarrh

Is a constitutional disease. It originates in a serous condition of the blood and depends on that condition. It often causes headache and diarrhea, impairs the taste, smell and hearing, affects the vocal organs and disturbs the stomach.

It is always radically and permanently cured by the blood-purifying, alterative and tonic action of

Hood's Sarsaparilla

This great medicine has wrought the most wonderful cures of all diseases depending on impurity of the serous habit.

Hood's Pills are the best cathartics.

Admiral Cervera has come to the aid of Schley in an interview from Vichy, France. He says a man of his nobility of character could not be a coward and adds: His flag-ship, the Brooklyn, was west in the blockading line, and was therefore the most exposed. She was engaged in a running fight with the Viscaya and the Colon. When the Brooklyn and Oregon got within range of the Colon they opened fire and the latter was compelled to run ashore. The Cristobal Colon also struck her colors to the Brooklyn and the Oregon. "The Brooklyn, holding the westward blockading position, was within range our ships and batteries all the time, though our ships lacked certain things necessary for full effectiveness. Admiral Schley showed ability and thoroughness."

Andrew Carnegie has offered to give a free library building to the city of Henderson, to the value of $25,000. The conditions are that a building site be donated free and that the municipality appropriate or rather provide ten per cent per annum, which is $2,500, to pay the running expenses of the said free public library and keep it up. It is understood that this ten per cent proviso or condition is to last for ten years.

Secretary Long seems to be trying to do the square thing by Schley. He has offered to modify some of the terms used in his precept and has issued an order the effect of which is to direct Sampson to quit shooting off his mouth about Schley.

The order applies to all persons in the naval service, including Maclay also.

Schley has produced a letter from Sampson overruling Long's telegram and ordering him to remain at Cienfuegos, placing the blame for the delay in reaching Santiago not upon Schley but upon Sampson himself.

The bolters from the Ohio Democratic State Convention met in Columbus Wednesday and organized "The Progressive Democratic Party." Less than a dozen delegates were present.

Rear Admiral Kimberly has asked to be excused from service on the Schley court of inquiry, on account of bad health.

Some of the papers are still arguing that the prayers did not end the drought in Missouri. At any rate the praying did no harm.

Ed Gathier Falls From Ladder—Badly Hurt.

Mr. G. E. Gathier fell from a step ladder in Mr. L. L. Elgin's drug store Tuesday morning and sustained a fracture of the hip. The fall was not, causing the ladder to slip, and Mr. Gathier fell to the floor with great force. His injury is of a very serious nature and the chances are that he will be confined to his bed for some time.

THE CARNIVAL

To Be Given Each Night During Fair Week.

The Carnival to be given each night during the Madisonville Fair next week will open Monday night, August 5, at the Fair grounds, and will consist of the usual features to be seen at street fairs, with all objectionable features eliminated, says the Hustler.

There will be music, a number of acrobatic acts and other interesting attractions given each night. The side shows will all be lit up and running in full blast and the voice of the spicels will be heard in the land.

One or two nights a nice display of fire works will be given. The grounds will be lit with arc lights supplied by the Bailey Light & Water Company, and with innumerable gasoline lamps.

The Fair grounds are cool and a good breeze always blows through the amphitheatre. An admission of only 10 cents will be charged at the gate to compensate the management for the lights and free attractions to be furnished.

A Minister's Good Work.

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic, got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, took two doses and was entirely cured," says Rev. A. A. Power, of Emporia, Kan. "My neighbor across the street was sick for over a week, he had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, then called in another doctor who treated him for some days and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he said, 'No.' I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief. But he took no more and was entirely cured. I think it the best medicine I have ever tried." For sale by all druggists.

HOWELL

Refreshing Rain—Sick People—Crop Items—Social Map Paintings.

Howell, Ky., July 31. After two months' drought, our little town was visited by a good refreshing rain on yesterday, which has done much to refresh up old mother earth and in a measure restore corn and tobacco to a greener hue. The farmer has been greatly damaged and by the most conservative estimate two laurels per acre will be a good yield and the earlier fields will fall far short of that. The tobacco has not been damaged greatly and planters are still hopeful of being able to house a good crop of the weed.

I put a number in our midst have been sick this dry weather and the following are a list of the ones who are still confined to their beds. Mr. John White, a venerable old brother, has been quite low since early spring. He is eighty-eight and his trouble is principally a worn out system with a complication of minor ills. He is a true, faithful and kind man, who is loved and respected by all and it is hoped that he may yet be spared, even if for a few years more, for his conduct has been a living example of christian faithfulness and forbearance.

Mrs. Geo. Buchanan has also been extremely ill for the past six weeks, but we are glad to say she is much improved and we hope will soon be entirely restored.

Mr. T. B. Caldwell is confined to his bed, and has been for a month, with typhoid fever. He has never been critically ill and we hope he will soon recover.

Howell has been wonderfully improved lately by having a plank walk laid along "Main street." True no oil has been discovered in paying quantities within its city limits, but we think if we could only have an ice plant, and street sprinkler with a few more minor improvements our little town would be a very desirable place to spend these hot summer days.

Messrs O. M. Wilson, E. C. Radford, L. A. Tuggle and P. C. Clardy have been to Cerulean recently for their health.

Miss Carrye Fuller, of Memphis, is the most pleasant guest of the Misses Nichols. She has done much to enliven our neighborhood, and more than one of our young men would love to have her with us always.

Miss Biggs, of Lutesville, Miss., is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Mary Smith.

Misses Williamson, of Indiana, and Mary Cayce, of Hopkinsville, are charming guests of Miss Tessie Clardy.

Mr. Pete Fox, we are glad to note, has returned home.

Miss Hallie King has been visiting friends in Madisonville for the past ten days.

The Misses Lowry will entertain at their beautiful and hospitable home this eve. A large crowd expects to attend, as their reputation as hostesses, is to excel, and to visit their home is an assurance of a royal time that can only be had at a typical southern home.

Miss Howell Wilson will also give the young folks a treat in the form of a lawn party on Friday evening.

Mr. Hugh Embury, who has been in Peoria, Ill., for the past year, is mingling with friends here now.

If this should find space in your valuable paper we will come again. Use.

VERY CLOSE TO ZERO

Prof. James Dewar Secures Jar of Liquid Hydrogen.

Enters a New Realm and Makes Liquid Air New Hot-Water Bath Attempt to Reduce Helium Record of His Life.

It is a genuine pleasure to discuss the triumph of science over nature as recorded in interesting words of the experiments of the Royal society of London.

It is sufficiently wonderful to say that Prof. James Dewar carried in a jar through the streets of London to his lecture-room nearly two quarts of liquid hydrogen, which until then was the most intangible form of matter known to man. On arriving before his audience this wizard of science, who deals with temperatures comparable with which arctic cold is like a seething furnace, produced marvels never witnessed outside of his own laboratory.

He reduced hydrogen to a solid which appeared like snow in the test tube and announced that a temperature had been produced eight degrees on the centigrade scale, or within nine degrees of absolute zero. There is one substance only now known which has as yet not been reduced to a liquid, and that is the new gas helium. This most volatile form of matter has a boiling point four degrees or five degrees above absolute zero. The hope of being able to liquefy helium depends on subjecting it to the same process as has succeeded with hydrogen, only instead of using liquid air under exhaustion as the primary cooling agent, liquid hydrogen under exhaustion must be employed, and the resulting liquid collected in vacuum vessels surrounded with liquid hydrogen. In this way, by the use of liquid or solid hydrogen as a cooling agent, it ought to be able to liquefy a body having a critical point of about six degrees to eight degrees of absolute zero and a boiling point of about six degrees or less. Then, if liquid helium could be produced, this substance would not enable us to reach the zero of temperature.

Another gas must be found as much more volatile than helium as helium was than hydrogen in order to reach within one degree of zero. If a helium group comprised a substance having an atomic weight of one-half that of helium such a gas would bring us nearer the desired goal. Neatness the production of liquid helium is a difficult and expensive enough problem to occupy the scientific world for many a day.

In conclusion Prof. Dewar showed how the crystal nitrate of uranium, when placed in liquid hydrogen, became for a time self-luminous on account of the high electric stimulation brought about by cooling causing actual electric discharges between the crystal and the liquid. He showed the crystal was removed from the liquid. Luminosity and electric discharges took place during the return to normal temperature.

Prof. James Dewar, whose recent remarkable experiments with liquid hydrogen are here described, was lately the inventor of a new and rich source of energy. He began his researches in the liquefaction of air in 1874. Since then he has written and read before the Royal Institution of Great Britain more than 80 papers, giving the result of his investigations and experiments. He conquered liquid air, liquid hydrogen, and he now expects to reduce helium, the most volatile substance known.

Prof. Dewar was born at Kinross-on-Forth in 1842, and was educated at the Balliol academy and Edinburgh university. He is an M. A., LL. D., D. Sc., M. D., F. R. S., F. C. S., holds two professorships at Cambridge, is vice president of the Royal society, and is co-inventor with Sir Frederick Abel of cordite, a new explosive. He was awarded the first Hodgkin gold medal of the Smithsonian institution in 1899 for "exceptionally important contributions to our knowledge of the nature and properties of atmospheric air." Prof. Dewar lives in Albemarle street, London.

A Boy's Sense of Honor. It might have been a mere school boy's honor that prompted him to do it, but who could but admire the spirit of the little fellow who, while playing in a New York park, on the other side, refused to let the name of the companion who had pushed him from a freight car and brought him to his knees, be known.

He said, after he reached legs had been unspun. "I wouldn't be fair to tell. He didn't mean to hurt me." And with his hand clutching the mother's thigh, the boy who was true to his claim, even to death, passed away.

Ordinary Lima beans, some one has said, are good to allay thirst, but the same can be said, with equal truth, of a pitcher of water.

Advice To Breeders.

That the Belgian hare industry is in its infancy goes without saying. If our city cousin can hope to make a profitable business out of it, how much more can we in the country, where nature furnishes so lavishly all that his highness requires. Sunshine and pure air are absolutely essential to the good health of bunnies, and no animal so loves to bask in sunshine or so enjoys the free air. Besides sun and air purifies their run, dissipating all odor, and conducting to the health of our pets.

My experience is, the hare is a very hardy, healthful animal, multiplying and thriving under unfavorable conditions if they must, but amply repaying for all one's painstaking care. The healthiest, cheapest and most agreeable food for summer or winter is their natural diet, the plain diet. It can be cut and cured for winter use and will be eaten by old and young in preference to clover hay; catnip is also relished and should be furnished them. Wheat screenings or cheat for grain food is the natural diet of the wild rabbit and they will quit their oats every time for this ration. Besides being cheap it gives them that sleek, roughish appearance so much to be admired. Give them plenty of plain diet and screenings and you will need no formula for colic, snuffles or any other disease. I have had but one sick hare in my rabbitry, and that was an imported buck that had been fed bread and milk. I never feed bread and milk, do not think much of it except for pigs, never for hares. My hares are all out of doors in open sheds; they have some eighteen or twenty feet through center of runs for the free access of sun and air. I have had some of the finest litters come during January and February zero weather, saving every one, and only an inch board between their nest box and all outdoors. The little fellows gamboled in the snow banks that drifted in their runs and seemed to enjoy it. What they need in my judgment, is as near an approach to the conditions obtaining in their wild free life as possible without overdoing the thing—C. C. McLaren, in Belgian Hare Advocate.

Pit Games as Protectors.

There is no better protector for a flock than a Pit Game male, but he must come from a stock that is game in all that the term implies. He will fight dogs, cats, hawks, or anything that comes in his way, not excepting his owner, and he is ready to "die for his principles," which is not the case with many men. The Pit Games cannot be surpassed as a table fowl, and while the hens are not regarded as equal to some breeds as layers, they are not inferior to others in that respect. When a game hen has a brood of chicks, and the cat comes for a meal (as all cats will eat chicks), is a kinder introduction to the hen gives the cat the highest respect for her thereafter, and the cats partially for fresh chicks will undergo a remarkable change. The stray dog is likely to go off with an eye out or a gash on his cheek, for the game hen usually has spurs and they hurt. She will fight the hawk to the death, and suffer no living creature to harm her chicks if fighting will prevent; and she will raise her chicks, as no hen is a kinder or more attentive mother. She never tramples her young, is always ready to hover them, and does not race them to death. Other fowls keep at a respectful distance, and the young stages are kept under subjection by their sire, who also keeps peace and good order in the flock. We do not approve of cock fighting, but the Pit Game would be a useful bird even if never fought in the pit. He is courageous, brave, and attentive to his mates, always ready to protect the chicks, and is one of the handsomest and proudest birds known.—Poultry Keeper.

Rooster Playing Horse.

O. J. Plumason, of Luverne, Minn., is the owner of a giant Buff Cochon rooster, which has been trained to trot in harness, pulling a tiny cart, in which rides the baby son of its owner. Golden Duke is the name of this strange of fowls, and it is a prize winner in its class, as well as a freak. The big bird was broken to harness by the boys of the Plumason household, and now seems to enjoy its work. It wears a little harness and is guided by reins, which it carries in its bill. It is the master of several gaits, and at the word of command given by the small child who is driving, it will walk, run, trot or come to a standstill. At home in the country the big rooster often pulls the cart and its occupant for half a mile or more without stopping.

Geese.

Keep only the old geese for breeding purposes, sending the younger ones to market. Old geese are not saleable and are more valuable in raising for their young when three or four years old than before. They begin to lay in February and March, and should be given warm quarters in the early spring. Geese pay well, if cared for, and cost but little, as they prefer to forage for themselves.—Am. Stock Keeper.

The popular view of the relation of the blood to human character is conducted marked by many a familiar expression. We speak of there being "bad blood" between people at enmity, of "blue blood" as indicating ancestry, of "black blood" as "writing a treacherous nature," and many another phrases mark our belief that in the mental, moral and physical man, "the blood is the life." The one basis of a healthful, happy and useful life is pure blood. With the blood pure, the body has no permanent lodging place in the system. For this reason the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures the body of diseases which have their origin in impurity of the blood. It absolutely purifies the blood, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter, increasing the action of the blood-making glands, and building up the body by supplying the blood in quantity and quality such as is essential to a condition of health. It cures all eight peoples of every hundred who give it a fair trial.

Profit From Standard-Breds.

I have been breeding standard-bred poultry for about ten years. Previous to this I thought anything that wore feathers, and resembled a hen would answer the purpose, but experience has taught me better.

I have been breeding Buff Plymouth Rocks almost from their introduction and have found them very profitable both for fancy and market purposes. I want to tell you, readers, the results I obtained from an investment of $12 in Buff Rock eggs a year ago this spring as I have kept a strict account of the chicks raised and the profit derived from them separate from the rest of my flock. I sent a noted western breeder $12 for forty-five Buff Rock eggs and he was to send me eggs from his best birds. The forty-five eggs were set the 28th of April, 1900, under some game hens which I borrowed from a neighbor. These hens were the worst things to break eggs I ever had any experience with, for when hatching day came (May 11) there only remained thirty-five eggs in the nests. From the thirty-five eggs 30 strong, healthy chicks were hatched. Not satisfied with breaking eggs, these pesky Game hens trampled two chicks to death in the nest; which left me with only twenty-eight chicks, and I raised the whole twenty-eight to maturity. Now to show the profit I have made on these twenty-eight chicks to date (April 20th, 1901) I quote from my poultry account book.

After culling out and selling surplus birds, I had left nine females and two cockerels, which were kept for breeding purposes. Following is the account as it appears in my account book:

Sold five cockerels at $1, $2.50, $5, $5 and $3, respectively; one pair $5; 100 incubator eggs, $5; eggs for hatching to date (April 20th), $11; sold eggs to stores during winter, $5.13; used in the house four dozen, $1. Total, $39.40.

My expenses were: Eggs for hatching, $12; express 60c; feed and other expenses, $11.36. Total, $23.96; profit, $15.44; or an average of a trifle over $1.44 per head, including male and females, with the original nine females and two males yet on hand which, figuring from the average price by which the other stock was sold ($2.15), would be worth about $23.65, or a total profit of $39.09.

There is a prevailing idea among a very large class that a hen is a hen and one is just as good as another, so I quote the above for the benefit of this class. Poultry men who have and are making the business a success will tell you that standard-bred poultry is the most profitable in every way, and this decision comes from knowledge and experience gained in their business.—HENRY TRAFFORD in Poultry Keeper.

AN INTERESTING DISCUSSION On the Merits of the Wooden Leg in Cake Walk.

A debate of much moment occurred on Market street during the small hours of a recent morning, at the Denver Republican. The question was: "Can a man with a wooden leg do justice to a cake walk?" Thomas O'Rourke took the affirmative and Martin Marchiano the negative. As each possessed a wooden leg and an argument based on experience was offered.

O'Rourke asserted that the wooden leg having a rhythmic swing, when attached to the stump of a man with music in his soul kept part of him with synchronous music and gave forth a sympathetic creak which those who were given to cake walking with ordinary legs could not hope to secure.

Marchiano, on the other hand, insisted that on numerous occasions, a "cat" Keltner's and Billy Roberts he had tried the cake walk, both fast and slow, and had been unable to do anything with it. In fact, he asserted that at one time he had been thrown bodily from the dance hall because his wooden foot had inaudibly, but came down upon the toes of his partner in the dance and she had screamed murder and other things too numerous and too person to mention.

O'Rourke again insisted that it was due to Marchiano's lack of an unsympathetic nature, and offered to show him a few pronounces if he would agree to buy the next drink. The debaters adjourned to Keltner's dance hall. O'Rourke gracefully took the center of the floor, and to the strains of "Ma Tiger Lily" by the orchestra, performed several steps to the wonder and admiration of the crowd, ending his performance by standing on his wooden leg and whirling with the rapidity and abandon of a dervish.

Marchiano was induced to attempt the same performance and he tried to demonstrate that while the sensational feat of his friend could be duplicated, there was nothing artistic about it. He got along very well until he tried the whirl, and then the fastenings of his leg became loose, hurling him to the floor, striking on his head and still whirling. O'Rourke laughed heartily, whereupon Marchiano recovered himself and grabbing his wooden leg clutched it and attempted to commit manslaughter. The combatants were finally separated and turned adrift in the street, still arguing the merits of the cake walk as performed by a wooden-legged man.

A CHAIRVOYANT STORY.

Mother and Wife Have Promotions of an Englishman's Tragic Death.

Dr. Abraham Wallace, of Harley street, relates a curious story concerning the death of the late Mr. P. L. Foxwell, the stock broker of Thames River, whose body was found in the ditch six weeks after his disappearance, says the London Chronicle. On the night before he was missing Mr. Foxwell visited his aged mother at Finsbury Park, and the old lady's parting words were: "Oh, Percy, do take care. I feel as if something is going to happen to you to-morrow." The husband explained that, being a lady interested in psychic matters, Mrs. Foxwell had just visited a clairvoyant, who told her that she would be a widow within 12 months. After her husband's disappearance she consulted another clairvoyant, and, although not possessed of psychic powers, she saw in the crystal her husband's drowned body. In the drawing-room at Dutton Lawn some of the party were present when the dead man's spirit form was present. Subsequently, letters from the dead man were received, and after his body had been found a communication from him was received in which he stated that "his dead body had been found, but he did not wish to say further particulars about his death, as it would greatly injure his dear wife." In concluding his story, the clairvoyant every one of his words produced by the clairvoyants had been produced—a fact that Mrs. Foxwell and others would willingly testify by affidavit.

Migration of Herrings.

Germany is deeply interested in the migration of herrings. Year after year the shoals have continued to move farther north, and the hydrographic commission at Kiel and Gdansk is discussing the best means of bringing them back south. The question is one of the highest importance for German fisheries.
